

THE UNIVERSITY EXERCISES.

The commencement exercises at the State University, a report of which appeared in yesterday's JOURNAL, were by far the most interesting of the kind ever held in Nevada. That the people take an active interest in the university and all pertaining to its success was shown by the fact that every seat in the large opera house was filled and a large number of persons had difficulty in finding standing room within hearing distance of the rostrum, many having come from other counties to attend the exercises. The orations and essays by the graduating classes were instructive and interesting, the ceremony of conferring the degrees by President Jones was impressive, and the commencement address by Dr. H. Bergstein was witty, logical, humorous and eloquent, and replete with good advice to the faculty, the students and the public.

The Nevada State University is now recognized as one of the best educational institutions on the Pacific coast. It affords the youth of the state excellent opportunity to equip themselves for the battle of life. It has professors of languages and literature, of anatomy and physiology, of mining and metallurgy, of chemistry and physics, of botany and entomology, of pedagogy and economic science, of mathematics and military science, of agriculture and horticulture, of history and rhetoric, and last but not least a mechanical department, where young men can become practical workers in wood or metal. The aim of the regents and faculty is to have the university second to none and to make it an institution to which Nevadans can point with pride, and that this will soon be attained there is no reason to doubt.

FRAUDULENT PENSIONERS.

The Ohio Republican platform, which is silent on the financial question, denounces the pension policy of the administration. What that policy is can best be judged by the words and actions of the present commissioner of pensions Judge Lochren of Minnesota, recently appointed chief of the pension bureau, is a member of the Grand Army of the Republic. He has a war record of which he may reasonably feel proud, and is as liberal and generous as he is brave. He says if a man is entitled to a pension he ought to receive it, and if he is not he should not apply. He proposes to thoroughly investigate every application and ascertain whether the applicant was a real soldier or an impostor. If found deserving, the name of the applicant will be placed on the pension rolls, and if he finds that fraud, at pensions are robbing the people the robbery will be stopped. What is there in that policy that is objectionable to any honest man, whatever his politics may be? Does any soldier worthy the name denounce such a policy, and if so, why? There is truly not a person who desires to see the government robbed by men who never served a day in the army and who are no more entitled to a pension from the United States than the Chinese who passed through in bond a few days ago to work on sugar plantations in Cuba.

THE NEBRASKA OFFICIALS.

The Nebraska Legislature, after a full investigation, accused Secretary of State Allen, Attorney-General Hastings and Commissioner of Lands Humphrey of mismanagement in office. The officials were suspended pending a decision by the Supreme Court. That Court by a strictly partisan vote of two to one decided that the State officials should be reinstated. Judge Maxwell, who dissented from his two associates on the Supreme bench, held that the charges against the officials are well taken and should be sustained, and therefore voted guilty as charged. He says the men were guilty of mismanagement in office, and should forever be barred from holding positions of trust in the public service. The Judge, whose opinion is very lengthy, contends that the result of the decision if adhered to will be to open a door to the grossest frauds in the public institutions of the state.

A number of witnesses testified for the State as if under constraint, and there seemed to be powerful influences affecting some of them, aside from the immediate friends of the officials who were at work in their favor. Respondents are, of course, not responsible for these influences, but the Judge thought it his duty to mention them.

THE LAND RING.

The Reno JOURNAL while seemingly disposed to assist in exposing the land ring, thinks that the editor of the Appeal has been imposed upon by some designing person in reference to the alleged land frauds in this state. The Appeal has received its information from some very high and reliable authority on this question and since the agitation parties have volunteered to assist us. We expect to receive information from Washington on this matter and when it is published we think there will no longer be any doubt about the character of the rascality that has been going on in this state in connection with its public land.

It has been the policy of the ring to drive from the state everybody who has attempted to locate and improve its lands and the operations of this ring has materially retarded state development.

The above is from the Carson Appeal, which will find the JOURNAL exactly what it seems in assisting to expose the land ring, if there be one. The JOURNAL is not disposed, however, to make it appear that the surveyors of the state are scoundrels unless there is proof of the fact. If they or any other persons are implicated in a scheme to blackmail land purchasers and settlers they should be exposed.

As heretofore stated in the JOURNAL it ought not to be a difficult matter for the Appeal to ascertain at the federal or state land office at Carson who surveyed the land for the three brothers from California, who intended to settle in Spanish Springs valley, and who entered the lands which those brothers had surveyed. If what the Appeal alleges regarding this transaction is substantiated by the records in the state or United States land office it proves the existence of a land ring and that at least one surveyor is implicated in it.

It is not necessary to go to Washington for information on this subject as the records of the land offices in Carson will prove or disprove the allegation.

A Number of Men Killed by the Falling Walls of a Building.

Special to the JOURNAL.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—To-day hundreds of men were carried down by the falling walls of a building which was notoriously unsecure. Human lives were crushed out by tons of falling bricks and iron and hurled into the depths of despair. Women are calling for their husbands, children are calling for their fathers, and mothers are calling for their sons, and there is not an answer to the cry. This is but a shadow of a calamity that befell this city this morning. Its horrors will never be fully told. Its suddenness was almost the chief horror. In a moment, in the twinkling of an eye was the change, and the national capital of the proud nation on earth there has been a catastrophe unparalleled in the annals of its history, and in every mind there is a horrible conviction that its cause is to be found in the criminal negligence of a government too parsimonious to provide for the safety of its loyal servants by erecting buildings proper for their accommodation.

It was between 9:30 and 10 o'clock this morning that the floors of the old Ford theater building on Tenth street, occupied by the records and pension division of the surgeon-general's office fell in as though they had been cards of a card house. On each floor were scores of men at work. Without warning they were carried down by an awful catastrophe. The floor was made up of iron girds hardly strong enough to support the walls, but heavy enough to stamp out men's lives; of bricks held together by plaster long since dried out, of wooden beams that had been in place too long. There was no escape from such a flood. The government of a great nation could not afford to provide a safe building for its faithful employees, but herded them together in a building whose unsound condition was notorious.

There is shame and remorse in the souls of some men who were responsible for the state of things that confined the men working for their daily bread in a building that everyone in the city of Washington knew was unsafe.

Twenty-eight years ago was another tragedy within the walls of this building. The news of it was flashed to the four quarters of the earth and it brought consternation wherever it went. The man killed was the president of the United States. As though the building had borne a curse upon it from that time, it ended its career in a fitting manner.

Those of the multitude who thought of something besides the catastrophe remarked upon the strange coincidence that the building in which John Wilkes Booth slew President Lincoln should fall and kill scores of people on the very day that the body of the assassin's brother was laid to its final rest.

Evidence found in the official records shows that as long ago as 1885, this building, which the government purchased after the assassination and used as an army museum, was officially proclaimed by congress an unsafe depository for even the inanimate skeletons, mummies and books of the army medical museum, and a safer place was provided, but notwithstanding that in the public press and in congress attention was called to the walls of the building, and its darkness and general unsuitability and in safety, it continued to be used for the daily employment of 500 government servants.

While the work of rescue was going on men who had been strangers to emotion, wept like children and turned away their faces when the limp and lifeless bodies of those who had been crushed beneath the ruins were brought forth to the sunshine they would see no more upon this earth. Women were helped away in a fainting condition and in every heart was sorrow and in every eye stood moisture from grief.

It seemed as though the helpers were carrying out mere bags of matter, smeared with blood and filthy with dirt. The hospitals were soon overcrowded. Drug stores were turned into temporary hospitals and people in the neighborhood of the accident gladly opened their doors and the dead and wounded were hurried in. When the accident was over and before the rescuers could get inside to their relief there were injured men who were caring for their worse injured brothers. There were men who did not rush to the street to save their own lives regardless of the fact that more walls might fall and bury them once more. They stayed to succor the men who did not get away by themselves. One man whose arm was crushed, used his other arm to drag a man from that place of death. Every moment of throwing aside of wreckage exposed the body and often mutilated form of some victim. Occasionally one of them revived sufficiently to need but little assistance to reach the outer air, but the majority of them, dusty, bruised, and with clothing torn almost in tatters, were carried into the clear atmosphere and through the sorrowing crowd to ambulances and patrol wagons. At first the efforts to rescue were most inefficient, but in a little while system prevailed. As the bleeding and mangled bodies were brought out groans and outcries arose on all hands. One man was found sticking head first in the debris. His feet were seen first, and soon his legs were uncovered and seen to move, showing he was still alive. As fast as human hands could work those rescuers did, and soon they had the unfortunate man out. He was alive when brought out into the air, but died before reaching the ambulance in the street. This was but one of the many shocking scenes.

Following is a list of the dead thus far reported, with the names of the state from which they were appointed. It contains twenty-two names, including one unknown man. There is a possible duplication, as only twenty-one bodies have been taken from the ruins. The unknown man taken from the ruins at five o'clock this evening is evidently a clerk George Allen, Penn.; George M. Arnold, Virginia; L. W. Boody, New York; Samuel P. Banes, Pennsylvania; John Dossius, District of Columbia; Arthur Dietrich, Kentucky; Jeremiah Daley, Pennsylvania; James R. Fagan, Kansas; Jos. B. Gage, Michigan; David C. Jordan, Missouri; H. Jarvis, Michigan; J. Boyd Jones, Wisconsin; F. W. Haeder, New York; Miller, Ohio; J. H. McFall, Wisconsin; E. G. Shull, Kansas; J. Schymer, Maryland; H. S. Wood, Maryland; F. M. Williams, Wisconsin. O. H. Miller was reported killed, but probably the name is meant for C. R. Miller, who was supposed to have been killed, but will recover.

Lasssed and Dragged to Death.

CARLIN, Nev., June 9.—West Hecker-son of Surprise valley, Cal., was lasssed and dragged to death by George Rice, whom he had shot at. Both were on horseback, and Rice dragged him about fifty yards as fast as his horse could run. Hecker-son was shooting at Rice when the latter threw the rope. A coroner's jury is holding an inquest. Rice rode away and has not been arrested. Both men are cowboys on the range of the Dunphy estate.

Another Bank Suspended.

ELLENBURG, Wash., June 9.—A note was posted over the doors of the banking house of Ben E. Snipes & Co. this morning that the bank was temporarily suspended owing to heavy withdrawals of deposits and its inability to realize on securities amply sufficient to pay $5 for one of the indebtedness. A run on the branch bank at Roslyn yesterday precipitated the closing of the parent bank in this city. There is no excitement over the suspension.

An animal killed near Weston, Oregon, is puzzling the zoologists of that section. It is about 3 feet long, 18 inches in height, and it is covered with a shaggy coat of brown hair. Its head resembles that of a bear, but it has a long tail.

J. H. Thies of Lovelocks, W. H. A. Pike of Wadsworth and George R. Smith of Virginia City, all members of the Legislature, were in Reno yesterday. Mr. Smith will probably remain here some days, as he is on a health and pleasure seeking tour.

Editor Lemmon of the Amessee Geyser arrived in town last evening. He says Amessee is not lively, but it is by no means dead. There are six flowing artesian wells in the valley within a few miles of town, and several more are being bored. The fruit crop in Honey Lake Valley, he says, is better than usual this year.

Fourteen cars of Nevada range horses, which were loaded at Hallack, Nev., reached Ogden Tuesday morning, and the animals were taken off to feed and rest, says the Standard. The shipment is for the Chicago stockyards, and is made by Messrs. Green and MacIntosh.

The Chicago papers say one of the features of the World's Fair is the facility and frequency with which the Columbian guards pick up officials of the Fair, and dump them in patrol wagons for rides to the police station. This is the Chicago way of stating that the officials got drunk on the Fair grounds.

FOSTER'S FORECAST.

Heavy Rains About the 20th.—Infringing on Copyright.—How the Earth Relieves Its Accumulations.
Copyrighted 1893 by W. T. Foster.

St. JOSEPH, Mo., June 9, 1892.—My last bulletin gave forecasts of a storm waves to cross the continent from the 8th to the 11th and the 14th to the 17th. The next will reach the Pacific coast about the 18th, cross the western mountains by the close of the 19th, the great central valleys from the 20th to the 22d and the eastern states about the 23d.

This disturbance will be of wide extent, of more than usual energy and will be accompanied by heavy rains. It will be at its greatest force in the Mississippi valley about the 20th and 21st. A warm wave will cross the western mountains about the 18th, the great central valleys about the 20th and the eastern states about the 22d. A cool wave will cross the western mountains about the 21st, the great central valleys about the 23d and the eastern states about the 25th.

Principal rains during the last half of June will be in the southern latitudes with a decrease in northern latitudes. The Mississippi river will fall and reach its low water mark about the first week in July.

A number of papers are copying my weather forecasts without permission. In so doing they violate the copyright laws of the United States. I hope they will respect my copyright laws without the necessity of enforcing these laws. The papers authorized to use these forecasts should always insert the copyright notice as it is in the copy, which is the legal form.

THE GREAT ICE AGES.
There are unmistakable evidences that ice and glaciers have covered great portions of the earth where now are our most fertile countries and pleasant climates, but in searching for a cause our scientists are addicted to far-fetched theories. They are not willing to reason from known facts but are prone to adopt impossible hypotheses. All agree that the ice sheets were very like that which covers the north pole within the arctic circle. I believe that the ice age of the north polar and south polar regions. Could such be the case?

It is not possible that the poles and equator of the earth are permanent. It is well known that they are not. Law requires that at great intervals more rapid changes should occur.

This earth has gradually grown from a single atom to its present dimensions and if it has required a million years to accumulate from space and lay down the ten miles of debris in the geologically surveyed surface of the earth then it must have required 400 times that long to accumulate the 4,000 miles that constitute the earth's radius.

GROWTH OF THE EARTH.

The accumulations from space are at and near the earth's equator and not at the poles. Therefore all planetary bodies have greater diameters through their equators than through their poles. Since the last change of the earth's equator and poles all the former low places about the new equator have been filled up, and now the diameter through the equator is 26 miles greater than through the poles.

The earth receives its accumulations from space principally through animal, vegetable, and coral growths, if we are permitted to make a distinction between coral and animal life.

The accumulation from these sources are greatest at the earth's equator and least at the poles, and this accounts for the greater diameter at the equator.

Animal and vegetable growths come from space and not from the earth. Plant an acorn in a tub of dirt and when the oak has grown to a ton in weight the dirt will weigh as much as it did when the acorn was planted. The truth of this can be established in a shorter period by planting a hill of corn in a tub of dirt. There will be no change in the weight of the soil but a rapid increase in the weight of the corn. These experiences fully illustrate the growth of the earth from vegetable and coral accumulations near the earth's equator.

Rainfall is immensely greater near the equator than in more northern latitudes and this rainwater contains matter that greatly aids in building up the fibrous structures of vegetation. By this structure rainfall at the equator a much larger amount of ammonia is deposited there than in more northern latitudes.

Prof. Vail, one of our geological writers makes one of his notable mistakes herein. He claims that great floods have fallen at the earth's poles, an absurd idea that no meteorologist can entertain. His theory is that aqueous belts about the earth would gravitate toward the poles, when every known fact proves exactly the reverse of this.

Aerolites fall in greater numbers at the equator than at the poles. Metallic substances have a tendency to fall into an electric current, and as the electric forces of the earth are greatest over the equator, aerolites are drawn in that direction. It cannot be denied that these various causes accumulate matter near the earth's equator much more rapidly than at the poles.

This growth of the earth at the equator cannot go on forever without a change and even if no comet should ever have come this way to jostle the earth and change its equator it would have grown out of proportion so much at the equator that it must necessarily have made a change.

THE EQUATOR SHIFTING.

The earth is now out of proportion, probably to nearly the greatest extent it will bear and it is now shifting its equator and poles. As the equator continues to accumulate matter the rate of change will probably increase till a complete revolution of poles and equator have been accomplished and then the present polar iceage must give way to an equatorial climate and parts of our torrid zone take their places at the poles and, in turn, undergo their ice age.

In these changes, gradual or sudden, the levels of the oceans would make great changes as the records show to have been the case in all parts of the globe and in all ages of the world. Thus many floods have come by the rising of the ocean waters and there is no necessity for the impossible theory that the continents rise and fall.

K. OF P. GRAND LODGE.

Twenty-first Annual Session Closed.—Officers Elected.

The twenty-first annual session of the Grand Lodge, Knights of Pythias of Nevada, was brought to a close at Virginia City yesterday. There was no great amount of legislation at the session, which speaks well for the present laws, but more than usual interest was manifested in the work. The convention was largely attended, there being sixty-eight representatives present.

The following grand officers were elected to serve for the ensuing year:

George J. D. King, Supreme Representative; T. R. Hofer, Past Grand Chancellor; W. S. Beard, Grand Chancellor; J. F. Aitken, Grand Vice-Chancellor; Geo. W. Hatch, Grand Master of Exchequer; A. B. Stoddard, Grand Keeper of Records and Seal; N. A. Hummel, Grand Prelate; J. D. Torreyson, Grand Master at Arms; S. H. Rosenthal, Grand Inner Guard; W. S. Hillman, Grand Outer Guard; H. J. Thyes, C. E. Bray, H. J. Crampton, Trustees.

After the adjournment of the Grand Lodge, which was not until 4 o'clock p. m., the members of the uniform rank, among whom were a large number of members of Reno Division No. 2, who went up the hill by private conveyances, and Representatives and Knights formed in line in front of the Castle Hall, and a very imposing procession was viewed by the Virginia citizens. There were about fifty uniformed Knights and thirty Knights in citizen's dress in line, headed by the Silver State band of Virginia City.

At night an entertainment and banquet was given the Grand Lodge Representatives and visiting Knights. The ladies of Silver Temple No. 2, Pythian sisters of Virginia, had charge of arrangements, and well did they conduct everything.

Gen. C. C. Powning and Professor John E. Bray of Reno were prominent in the entertainment, the former responding to the toast of "Knighthood's Destiny," and the latter to "Ancient Knighthood."

The Knights feel that the twenty-first session was a very enjoyable one. The next session of the Grand Lodge will be held at Reno.

The Commencement Ball.

The commencement ball given last evening by the University students was largely attended and proved to be one of the most delightful parties of the season. The music by Fredrick's orchestra was up to the usual high standard. The grand march began at 9 o'clock with a brilliant crowd of dancers, and the party did not break up until the small hours this morning.

Removed Extension.

Thursday's Call contains a report that the Southern Pacific Company will extend its Placerville branch to Reno, tapping the rich sugar-pine belts of eastern California, between Placerville and the Summit, of which, it is reported, that Colonel Crocker and other railroad magnates own several hundred thousand acres.

Woman's Guild.

The Woman's Guild of Trinity church will meet to-day (Saturday) at 2 o'clock p. m. at the residence of Mrs. H. W. Higgins.

E. O. BARCOCK, Secretary.

The case of Mrs. Johnson vs. the Southern Pacific Company, is still on trial at the United States Court at Carson. The Appeal says it draws a large crowd to the courtroom. The evidence of the plaintiff's side of the case is intended to show that the locomotive on which Engineer Johnson lost his life was not in good order. What the defense will set up has not been disclosed.

THE COMSTOCK SHOOTING.

Further Details of the Affair.—Sharon Out on Bail.

Further details of the shooting of Dave Crosby by Fred Sharon at Virginia City on Thursday last are as follows:

Crosby met Sharon on O street near the Chronicle office and dunned him for money claimed to be due him. Angry words were exchanged when Sharon pulled a gun and fired four shots at Crosby, only one of which struck the mark.

After the shooting Sharon walked to the sheriff's office and gave himself up and Crosby was taken to Dr. Packard's office. The doctor found that the ball had entered the left thigh, passing through the flesh without striking a bone and missing the femoral artery.

Sharon had not been in jail more than half an hour when friends came to his rescue and deposited $1,000 bail for his release which was accepted by the justice.

The affair caused intense excitement and the street was soon lined with people, to find out particulars of the affair.

PARBLE!

"What, pretty—ah! With that brown skin and hair pale brown the cheek (too thin) Gray eyes—gray eyes! Well, have it—no! There's one good point but pretty—no! And nine in ten would pass her by." "Fath, man, I'd be the tenth!" quoth I.

"Clever? not she! Do what you list. She's the dull dog that looks your list. Or only clever to divide. A man's least ill by the least sign—Like nature, soothe, one knows not why." "Here's genius past all wit!" quoth I.

"But good? Parble! by those calm looks She's learned in hymns and cookery books—Made for a splinter, whose pores pains. Unaccounted, as the years run by." "Never, I love wins love!" thought I.

"—Dora R. Goodale in Homemaker

An Idol of the Sunbath.

The girl was fair. Soft blue her eyes as the sky, and pink and white her cheeks as the mountain peaks at sunrise, and golden light her hair as the moon-light air.

She was very fair. Unconscious save by her tossing tresses, she stood facing the east, and the sun came and kissed her.

Kissed her long and lovingly. Her mother saw her there and called to her.

"Let me linger here, dear mother," pleaded the fair being. "The air is so sweet, the fragrance of the flowers so rich. The skies above me are so tenderly blue, and, mother dear, I feel as if I were a little queen standing here in the glorious reign of the sun."

The mother appeared at the door. "Fudge!" she exclaimed. "You ought to have sense enough to come in out of that sort of a reign. Don't you know you'll be freckled worse than a turkey egg?"

And a heavy black cloud rose up and swiped the sun across the face.—Detroit Free Press.

Children Over Six Hundred Years Ago.

Somebody has unearthed a book written by Bartholomew Anglicus about 1290, of which one of the most amusing chapters is on the children of his day. Of these he writes: "They dread no perils more than beating with a rod, and they love an apple more than gold and make more sorrow and woe for the loss of an apple than for the loss of a heritage. They desire all that they see and pray and ask with voice and with hand. They keep no counsel, but they tell all that they hear and see. Suddenly they laugh, and suddenly they weep. Always they cry and jangle and jape; that unorth they be still while they sleep. When they be washed of filth, anon they defile themselves again. When their mother washeth and cometh them, they kick and sprawl and put with feet and with hands, and withstand with all their might." All of which sounds very modern and up to date.

The Educated Hoosier Cockroach.

While a gentleman was at his office desk a day or two ago, one of these disreputable roaches ran across the paper on which he was writing. He flipped it against the wall with his finger, and it bounded back on the desk, lighting upon its back. It remained motionless for some time until it recovered from the shock and then endeavored to get upon its feet again, but in vain. Smaller roaches passed by their prostrate brother, evidently without noticing it, but a larger one came along pretty soon, stopped, went over to the one that lay upon its back, straddled across it, and giving it a quick jerk with its forelegs landed it deftly upon its feet, and the two disappeared over the edge of the desk.—In Minneapolis News.

A Hopeless Case.

Lady—What is the matter with my husband?

Doctor—I cannot be sure yet. Have you noticed him doing anything unusual lately?

"Let me see. Well, last evening instead of lighting his cigar the moment he left the table, he walked into the library and put on his smoking jacket, smoking cap and slippers before beginning to smoke."

"Hum! My, my!"

"And later on, when he wrote a letter, he wiped the pen on a handkerchief."

"Horror! It's paraisis!"—New York Weekly.

Are Versus Incandescent Lamps.

Some interesting tests have been recently made to decide the relative illuminating power of the arc and the incandescent lamp. One company which has 120 incandescent lamps from 8 can die power to 500 candle power and six arc lamps of 2,000 nominal candle power on its extensive premises finds that each arc lamp tested illuminates an area of 3,000 square yards and absorbs one horsepower, and that each 800 candle power incandescent lamp illuminates an area of 200 yards and absorbs one horsepower.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

"German Syrup"

For Coughs & Colds.

John F. Jones, Edom, Tex., writes: "I have used German Syrup for the past six years, for Sore Throat, Cough, Colds, Pains in the Chest and Lungs, and let me say to anyone wanting such a medicine—German Syrup is the best."

B. W. Baldwin, Carnesville, Tenn., writes: "I have used your German Syrup in my family, and find it the best medicine I ever tried for coughs and colds. I recommend it to everyone for these troubles."

R. Schmalhausen, Druggist, of Charleston, Ill., writes: "After trying scores of prescriptions and preparations I had on my files and shelves, without relief for a very severe cold, which had settled on my lungs, I tried your German Syrup. It gave me immediate relief and a permanent cure."

A Long Dive.

London's latest thrill is derived from the feat of a man who dives down 95 feet from the roof of the Westminster aquarium into a narrow and comparatively shallow tank of water set in the floor of the building. The exploit calls for an astounding combination of nerve and skill and is far more noteworthy than any of the bridge jumping acts which have been so tiresomely frequent of late years.

The diver is Thomas Burns, who has acquired considerable notoriety as a diver from bridges and as an expert swimmer and not a little fame from his having saved no fewer than 93 lives during his career. He is a sturdy built man, some 28 years of age. He has frequently dived from bridges over 100 feet high into rivers, but his dive at the aquarium is a very different affair. He stands on a very platform suspended among the iron girders of the roof, 95 feet above the floor, and, from below him, instead of a broad, deep river, a mass of flaring, be-wildering lights, a sea of raptures faces, and in the wooden floor of the stage what seems from that height to be a mere lot, the tank in which he must surely land.

The tank is 18 feet long, 8 feet wide and 7 feet deep. The diver actually dives, takes a header and does not drop feet foremost, after the manner of the bridge jumpers. The marvelous precision required to land in the tank is easily appreciable, as is also the fate that would befall him should he miss his mark.—New York Sun.

A Volcano In Honolulu.

The floor of Kilauea is at certain periods subject to overflow by floods of fresh lava from Halemaumau, which will probably destroy large sections of the aforesaid trail, necessitating much labor in renewing it. This can hardly occur under two years from now, as it will probably take that length of time for the level of the molten lake to work up to the 200 feet or more necessary to enable it to discharge itself on the main floor. During the last period of overflow, in 1889-90, many thousands of acres of the main floor in Kilauea received fresh coatings of lava. In the immediate vicinity of Halemaumau the lava flowings were piled to a thickness of from 20 to 50 feet.

Meantime the lake, 300 feet in diameter, is overflowing every few days upon the lava floor around it, which is perhaps 250 feet lower than the brink of the circular pit, which is 2,400 feet in diameter. The American minister, Mr. Stevens, who was there recently, counted 13 fire fountains playing in the lake at one time. In April last we measured the largest fountains with an instrument. The fountains were three a minute, was 50 feet in diameter and 30 feet high. Its action was steady and incessant during the week we were there. Other fountains were more fitful, but intermittent. On the whole, the present aspect of the volcano is unusually satisfactory for observation by visitors.—Honolulu Friend.

Japan In Need of Rejuvenation.

It seems that the Japanese are growing weary of barbarism and their barbaric ways. For 250 years no European saw an English sailor and a tiny Dutch colony on an island desecrated their shores. Then came Commodore Perry unloading models of railways and other civilized appliances at Yokohama, with the notice that he would return in six months to see how they liked them, and that if they were unimproved he would blow Japan out of the water. And that for 80 years the Japanese denationalized themselves with a vengeance, even to the point of top hats and a house of commons. But now because a native pilot has brought an English steamer into collision with a Japanese cruiser the mikado is petitioned to expel every Englishman from the country. We should not be sorry if the mikado did so and included other Europeans in the expulsion. The Japanese need a rest to get themselves rejuvenated. The country and its people form, as it were, one of the national treasures of the world and should be carefully preserved and "restored." Sir John Lubbock and his ancient monuments society should internationalize themselves and see to it.—Pall Mall Gazette.

A Snake Laboratory Founded.

An enlightened Bengali, Labu Goring Chandra Lahra, has contributed 15,000 rupees toward the expenses of the proposed snake laboratory at Calcutta. We may expect, therefore, that the institution will soon be in full working order. Two main lines of research will be followed in the laboratory. So called cures for snake bites will be tested under strictly scientific conditions, and the properties of the snake poison as such will be investigated. The laboratory will be the only institution of its kind in the world, and the committee of the Calcutta zoological gardens, which has taken the matter in hand, expects that it will be largely resorted to by the scientific inquirers who visit India during the cold weather.—London Nature.

Her Weakness Is Kissing Young Men.

"Clara the Hugger," or Clara Sherman, was before Justice Blume of Chicago Thursday morning to explain why she persists in embracing every young man she meets. While Policeman Fitzgerald was traveling his beat he was seized around the neck by a young woman. She made every effort to draw the officer's face toward hers, but he managed to free himself from her. Later he saw the same woman hug a young man. He placed her under arrest. When arraigned in court, she said that whenever she meets a young man with a handsome face she cannot resist the temptation to kiss him. Justice Blume fined her $20.

How Fast Does Thought Travel?

Professor Donders of Utrecht has made some interesting experiments in regard to the rapidity of thought. By means of two instruments, which he calls the "neomatograph" and the "neomatometer," he obtained some important results. His experiments show that it takes the brain .007 of a second to elaborate a single idea. Writing in regard to this Professor Donders says: "Doubtless the time required for the brain to act is not the same in all individuals. I believe, however, that my instruments may be perfected until we will be able to determine the mental caliber of our friends without our friends knowing that we are testing their aptness." The professor further says: "For the eye to receive an impression requires .07 of a second, and for the ear to appreciate a sound .049 of a second is necessary. These curious experiments have established one fact at least—viz, that the eye acts with nearly double the rapidity of the ear."—Philadelphia Press.

Put to Flight.

All the peculiar troubles that beset a woman. The only guaranteed remedy for them is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. For woman suffering from any chronic "female complaint" or weakness; for women who are run-down and overworked; for women expecting to become mothers, and mothers who are nursing and exhausted; at the change from girlhood to womanhood, and later at the critical "change of life"—it is a medicine that safely and safely builds up, strengthens, regulates and cures.

If it doesn't, if it even fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

What you are sure of, if you use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy, is either a perfect and permanent cure for your Catarrh, no matter how bad your case may be, or $500 in cash. The proprietors of the medicine promise to pay you the money, if they can't cure you.
